

ProAssign ACT™ ALCHEMY Leadership for Doctors Managing Risk & Growing Performance in Healthcare

Minimising and managing risk is as important to organisations as growing and developing performance. For many these are at opposite ends of the scale yet all too often we know that they are frequently synonymous and equally as challenging.

Performance and growth are two of the major measurements of organisational health, however minimising and managing risk fundamentally demonstrates the ability of an organisation to identify the challenges and respond effectively to them resiliently.
